Last Week as Dr. Jurin and Dr. Turner were crossing the Common, from the Turnpike at Stamford Hill to go to Clampton, two Foot Pads came up to the Chariot, which the Coachman observing, he whipt his Horses, and the Rogue mistaking his Hold of the Reins, the Horse beat him down, rampled on him, and the Wheels ran over him and broke his Leg; upon which the other fired a Pistol, aiming at the Coachman's Head, and finding his Companion could not stand, took away his Pistol, and made off to the Left Side of the Common; the Bullet went through the Boot Sleeve of the Footman, as he had hold of the Leather Strap behind, and entering the Top of the Chariot, broke the fore Glais: Had it been leveled an Inch lower, it must have shot Dr. Turner through the Head, who sat on that Side. Immediately after, a Carter coming up the Common, the Footman was ordered to go along with him to seize the Rogue that could not stand, the Physicians making the best of their Way to Clampton, leaving their Patient with his broken Leg to the Care of the Surgeons. This Attempt was made on Friday, between 4 and 5, almost within Sight of the Turnpike: The Fellow has impeach'd his Companion, and was afterwards sent to the Hospital in the same Cart.
